

Family Stops

In order to protect the investments the community has made in the purchasing of library materials for the benefit of all residents, and in order to motivate people who are seriously delinquent (defined as those who have $200 or more worth of materials overdue for more than 30 days) to return overdue items, the trustees formally recognize the practice which has been in effect since the Community Library was created:

Family members may be stopped from using their library card whenever a member of the same family has items valued at more than $200 overdue 30 days or longer.

For the purpose of this policy, a “family member” is defined as someone from the same family residing at the same address.
